ROCKETMILL

Office Profile worked closely alongside the digital marketing agency RocketMill to design and refurbish their new sideside offices in Brighton.

The project included a main office area, meeting rooms, meeting pods and a kitchen and breakout space. Being a Digital Design and Marketing Agency, RocketMill were keen to have a fun and quirky design that was functional but would also help differentiate themselves from other companies and competition – and to exhibit their culture to clients and employees alike.

Facing the entrance door is a curved wooden feature wall. The design is used to create a statement, “We are RocketMill”, and reinforces the brand as soon as someone walks through the door. Between the curved veneer panels sit 3Dimensional letters that are illuminated to spell out “RocketMill”. Leading along the front of the feature wall is a bright patterned carpet that has a mixture of bright orange, grey and black stripes which help to add streaks of colour to the office.

The main boardroom features a graphic of a theatre audience from the 1900's looking toward you and was chosen by the MD after he saw something similar abroad. This collaboration between Customer and Supplier is great and really helps the client feel they are part of the process.

Members of the Office Profile team were invited to The Grand Opening Ceremony which included a duet of military trumpets outside the entrance, along with ribbon cutting and glasses of champagne to celebrate their fantastic new office.
