TECHSPACE BERLIN

Techspace, an existing client approached Office Profile to assist them in their first overseas office in Berlin's vibrant borough, Kreuzburg.

Techspace partner with ambitious teams who want more ownership of their workspace, helping them bridge the gap from startup to scale-up. It makes sense why Techspace would choose Kreuzburg as their first international office – it's known as the Shoreditch of Berlin! The place oozes of creativity and with a diversity of companies, the location of Techspace Lobeckstrasse is ideal.

Originally the building was a large open industrial space, which was worlds away from a typical office structure. Techspace was relying on our expertise to create a vibrant and inviting office for their first European venture. The building would need to include a variety of different zones; a reception enterprise space, private offices, meeting rooms, phone booths, kitchens, breakout areas and collaboration spaces

Making your business space work harder

We were involved in many aspects of the project; contractor negotiations, project management, space planning, interior and technical design, audio visual, lighting and furniture. One of the challenges was having to co-ordinate and manage the fit-out in another language, however our project team did a fantastic job in translating all of the details.

The project was particularly interesting for Office Profile as it was our first one overseas. We feel the office looks outstanding and we're sure Techspace Lobeckstrasse will be very successful!
